Two Allied soldiers gaze at the gaping 40-foot hole left in the grass-camouflaged roof of a Nazi U-boat pen at Brest, France, and marvel at the intricate structure, wrecked when several direct hits smashed through the roof. Two other pens also were put out of commission before Brest was liberated.

IT IS CLEAR NOW that Allied operations in Albania are minor, airborne and Commando units having been landed to help plug any gaps through which enemy forces fleeing Greece might escape to northern Italy or through the loosely-held Yugoslav partisan territory to Austria.

It is doubtful that the western Allies plan any major action in the Balkan area, leaving it instead to Russia and partisan forces. (In this connection it is interesting to note how rapidly the Russian "sphere of influence" is being consolidated. But that is another story.)

The intensity of Allied interest in the situation, however, is indicated in the announcement of an Allied over-all command for Greek partisan forces which not so long ago were fighting among themselves.

One of the headaches which the Greek government in exile was unable to solve in recent unity conferences was the matter of command. The Elass army of the Leftist team, which has claimed control of a large portion of Greece, insisted that other partisans, including the Edeas which also had been very active against the Germans, should come under Elass command. This was refused.

Now, apparently, the Allies have stepped in to take over the whole show, probably with the approval of both sides.

Elass is reported to have some 25,000 men. Edeas and other partisans

RHINE PASSAGE BATTLE NEARS;

CHINA TAKEN

Sink 22 Enemy Ships
In Philippines

(By Associated Press)
Tokyo radio reported the capture of one of the three remaining advanced American airfields in China today as U. S. fleet carrier forces added up the most remarkable record of ship and plane destruction of the Pacific war.

In an almost unopposed raid on the central Philippines, sea-borne fighters and bombers sank 22 Japanese ships, damaged about 70 other surface craft, and destroyed 36 planes. The raid, Sept. 23, (U. S. time) cost the attackers 10 planes and eight airmen, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced last night.

This was the seventh day of sweeping raids over the invasion-threatened islands since Sept. 8 by the air arm of Adm. William Halsey's Third fleet. Altogether they have wiped out 1,014 Japanese planes and sunk or damaged 360 surface craft. This mark surpasses most monthly totals for the entire Pacific.

Air Defenses Broken

Only seven interceptors dared oppose the raiders as they wrecked shipping, defensive installations and "thoroughly bombed and strafed" airfields on Cebu, Leyte, Negros, Mactan, and southern Luzon islands. All seven were shot down. The meager opposition illustrated Nimitz' statement that the enemy's air defense had been broken. Tokyo radio said replacements have since been flown in.

A skip-bombing navy Catalina flying boat, from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's air forces patrolling the southern Philippines, intercepted a convoy near Jolo, sank a 10,000-ton transport and damaged a smaller freighter-transport.

First New Car Won't
Come For 8 Months
After War Is Ended

(By Associated Press)
DETROIT, Sept. 29—Heads of the nation's automobile industry are agreed that if the war in Europe ends before next Jan. 1, from six to eight months will be required before a new passenger automobile can be produced.

They made this plain in a press conference yesterday participated in by C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors Corp.; K. T. Keller, president of Chrysler Corp.; Henry Ford II, executive vice president of the Ford Motor Co.; George T. Christopher, president of the Packard Motor Car Co. and others.

They also agreed that partial reduction of war work would not hasten the return to peacetime production.

Wilson said he had no quarrel with governmental controls over production in wartime, nor in the immediate post war period. He said that a sudden removal of the controls would be tantamount to "undermining a depression in the near future."

Discussing reports that his company planned to produce a new postwar model priced lower than any other competitive type, the youthful Henry Ford said:

"If there is a market for a low priced car we would like to be ready to build it."

Firemen Dash to 'Blaze'
But Forget Fly Swatters

The trials and tribulations of a fire department is a good title for this story. Last night, at 11:34, an excited voice on the telephone informed the firemen that Fultz' market was on fire, and the storeroom filled with smoke.

A rush call to the establishment on S. Broadway was made by the firemen—large truck and all—only to find that a thorough fly spraying job had been done several hours before, leaving a filmy cloud of fly-poison throughout the building.

Yes, they admitted, it did look like smoke, but it wasn't.

WAGE CONTROL
PLAN READIEDPublic Members of WLB
Are Prepared to Make Recommendations

BY JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—Public members of the War Labor Board are prepared to recommend to President Roosevelt a relaxation of wage controls, effective soon after victory in Europe. CIO leaders view this with alarm as a possible substitute for their goal of a general increase now by government order.

The wage policy issue was threatened out at a White House conference today between President Roosevelt and his labor advisory committee composed of high AFL and CIO leaders.

Relaxation of wage controls, as championed by Chairman William H. Davis, would mean that wage increases agreed to by employers would not need approval of the War Labor board. A measure of collective bargaining thereby would be restored, but labor would be expected to continue to withhold the strike weapon until the defeat of Japan.

See Pressure Eased

The theory is that with a relatively ample supply of labor after war production cutbacks are ordered, employer pressure on wage ceilings will be eased and stabilization can be achieved without continuing the present restrictions on voluntary increases. The bulk of WLB work now is the increase sought or agreed to by employers.

Exceptions would be written into such a relaxation order so that wage increases agreed to by an employer could not be used as the basis for a price increase; also, to prevent the pirating of war plant workers by those employers who produce civilian goods during the Pacific war.

CIO Unions Will Attend
Special Meeting Sunday

A special meeting of workers unions of six local plants will be held at 8 p. m. Sunday in Labor hall, S. Lundy ave., at which James C. Quinn, district 26 director, and Edwin Weyandt, USWA political action committee secretary, of Youngstown, will speak.

All officers, shop stewards and committeemen of local Unions 1538 (Mullins), 2463 (Demings), 3237 (Schmidt Tool and Die), 3538 (Conday), 3373 (Bliss) and 3406 (Electric Furnace) are asked to attend.

Quinn will discuss contracts which have been negotiated and those pending and Weyandt will talk on "Why Your Union" Has Entered Politics.

One of the boys, Larry, 14, drowned, and Lyons said he would file a murder charge this afternoon.

The other, Raymond, 7, crawled from the stream, wandered most of the night in a cold rain, and finally was picked up by a motorist, Lyons said.

The two other sons, Gene and Glenn, eight-year-old twins, were put out of their father's auto a half mile from the bridge and left with a blanket under a tree. They stayed

Third Army Opens Attack

Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army has opened a new major offensive along the Metz front in France, shown on this map, while forces of the same army are reported to have beaten off several local German counter-attacks east and southeast of Nancy. Chateau-Salins, a hotly contested town in this sector, was reported recaptured by the Germans. In Luxembourg, the Ninth Army continued its assaults around Trier.

Hitler's 3rd Secret Weapon

14-Ton Projectile Blasts
Everything In 2-Mile Radius

(By Associated Press)
SOMWHERE IN FRANCE, Sept. 23—(Delayed)—American third army troops have obtained information indicating that a 14-ton projectile with an explosive radius of three kilometers—almost two miles—is scheduled as the third in Hitler's series of vengeance weapons.

V-1 is the robot bomb launched from a platform.
V-2 is the long range rocket fired from a carrier plane, for which the Germans are reported using the Heinkel 111.
V-3, so far as is known here, has not yet been used against either England or the attacking Allied armies.

This dispatch, written last Saturday and only today cleared through Allied censorship, did not expand upon the explosive radius of V-3. However, the implication was that its power to wreck or damage buildings extended almost two miles from the point of impact.

Information on the "V-3," the successor to Hitler's flying bomb and long range rocket, was obtained by American Third army troops in their drive into enemy territory.

This information disclosed the projectile is just short of 60 feet in length, is five feet five inches in diameter and weighs 14 tons at the take-off. Propelled by a mixture of liquid air and alcohol, it is shot into the air vertically, then is controlled by radio.

No other details were disclosed, but it was believed the Germans have not yet placed the V-3 into operation.

LEETONIA OFFICER
WINS BRONZE STAR

The War department today announced the awarding of the Bronze Star medal to First Lieut. Elwood W. Ziegler of Leetonia for bravery in action Aug. 3, 1943, in Sicily.

His citation read:
"At 1 p. m. on August 3, 1943, near San Fratello, Sicily, he was conducting field artillery fire from a battery observation post. While adjusting fire on an enemy pillbox and machine gun nest, his observation post was subjected to a precision adjustment by enemy artillery. Approximately 30 rounds of 105-mm artillery fire landed in the immediate vicinity of his post and several rounds of about two feet thickness and four feet in height with no overhead cover during the 45-minute period he was under this fire, he continued with his own fire missions, necessarily exposing himself to do so. As a result of his observation, he adjusted upon and silenced an enemy battery which was shelling our observation positions."

Third Army
Knocks Out
82 Nazi Tanks

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, Sept. 29—The American Third and Seventh armies have surged forward three to five miles through fierce German resistance in Alsace-Lorraine, it was announced today. The Third army alone knocked out 82 German tanks in the powerful onslaught.

The two American armies, prying at the Belfort gap only 11 miles away and knocking at the four main passes through the Vosges to the Rhine, scored the deepest and widest gains of any on an Allied front seething with the mounting power of new offensives.

On the southern sectors of the 500-mile front, they shredded half a dozen enemy counter-attacks which cost the Germans heavily, captured eight to 10 villages and their bag of enemy tanks was one of the biggest since D-day.

But to the north the German commander at Calais asked for surrender terms, while Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's combined British Second army and parachute forces closed up to the Maas (Meuse) river on a 20-mile front from their Nijmegen corridor in Holland.

One Hundred Passengers
Are Injured As Freight
Plows Into Coaches

(By Associated Press)
MISSOURI VALLEY, Ia., Sept. 29—A fast freight plowed into a passenger train, knocked five cars on their backs and in the wreckage scattered over a half a mile left nine known dead and about 100 injured, of whom 47 received treatment in Council Bluffs, Ia., hospitals today. Two of the injured were reported in extremely critical condition.

Three soldiers, whose names were withheld by Ft. Crook, Neb., officers until the next of kin could be notified, were among those who died in the crash of the two Chicago and Northwestern line trains at about 7:30 p. m. CWT, Thursday, on the outskirts of Missouri Valley.

The other victims were identified as follows:
Mr. and Mrs. Ben White, Council Bluffs; Edwin Mayer, 50, Ashland, Neb.; Ida McLarnan, Moulvill, Ia.; Paul G. Sprack, Luverne, Minn.; and the two-year old daughter of Mrs. Agnes Steinhoven of Hull, Io.

Critically injured were the baby daughter of Charles Erwin, address unavailable, and a soldier, Chester Hallberg of Worthington, Minn.

The freight train, the Calumet which makes a regular Omaha to Chicago run, struck one of the coaches of the Sioux City to Omaha No. 10 passenger train which a railroad official said was on a switch at the time.

Partisan Morale

Something that needs to be talked about more openly in connection with the presidential election is partisan morale, with special emphasis on Republicans taking the defeatist line put out by New Dealers that Mr. Roosevelt is predestined to get a fourth term because no one ever has been able to lick him before.

This is the gravest danger in the perpetual president tradition that has been growing up around Mr. Roosevelt's long tenure—this notion that the efforts of a political opposition are being wasted because the outcome is a foregone conclusion. It is at the same time—though that is another matter—the danger to representative democracy inherent in public opinion polls, which assume to tell an electorate in advance what is likely to happen and tend to rob politics of the zest imparted by suspense until actual voting reveals the official outcome.

Under the circumstances, Republicans are the principal victims, but Democrats are not immune to the suggestion of predestination. Within their organization, they are affected as unfavorably by belief in Mr. Roosevelt's perennial success at running for president as are Republicans, and with the same effect. That is, they are inclined to take too much for granted, and it does not matter greatly that on their part the result is pleasant while for Republicans it is unpleasant. In both cases, the effect on partisan morale is bad.

Two-party politics isn't an automatic system of government. It requires conviction and work. Most of all it requires relentless effort in both parties to bring their maximum strength to bear on the settlement of issues at the ballot box. Polls and defeatism to the contrary notwithstanding, the national election in 1944 will be decided on Nov. 7. Until then it is the obligation of every voter to do his own thinking, not on the basis of what someone else is going to decide but on a basis of what he, himself, believes to be right.

Election In Wartime

In the years to come we may expect scholars in various fields to show more than passing interest in the unusual occurrence in this country of a full-fledged national election at the climax of a great war. Being close to it, we unavoidably slight its significance. In our own country it is unprecedented, except for Lincoln's reelection during the Civil war to a second term which he did not live long enough to serve. Among all nations, it has had no counterpart.

Yet, the most remarkable thing about it while it is happening is the people's failure to see anything remarkable about it. They are aware of such major dislocations as the service vote being polled overseas; it simply has not occurred to the electorate as a whole that a national election in wartime cannot be taken in stride.

This attitude is the highest tribute ever paid to the ideal of popular government—this unquestioning acceptance of their political responsibility by people whose counterparts in other countries usually forgo participation in politics as one of the first concessions to any emergency.

In this country the election process is being carried along not as a conscious demonstration of political responsibility and stability but almost automatically. The people simply are not aware that to be taking part in a campaign to decide whether or not to change a national government is an extraordinary thing to be doing in the middle of a war. But of course it is—and nothing could be more becoming on the part of candidates, wherever they are and whatever they are running for, than to make frequent and sincere public acknowledgment of the privilege of living in a country whose processes of government can withstand even the impact of history's greatest war.

To the Other Extreme

In the pendulum pattern which popular opinion has been following on guesses about the duration of the war, there is clearly evident now a swing from immediate to delayed victory. Only a few weeks ago it was the fashion to speak of the end of the war in Europe as something imminent, but now it is becoming the fashion to talk gloomily of 1945. Not to be outdone, those who formerly were talking about victory against Japan in 1945 are revising their estimates and mentioning 1946.

Fortunately, this tempestuous swinging from one extreme to another does no evident harm. Despite the outcries of officials who condemn the public alternately for expecting too much and too little, war production is not known to be affected by the trend of conversation. It is in that respect comparable to the incessant rumors that live conversation in the armed services—rumors that cover every possibility known to man yet almost never have any basis in fact.

Being unaccustomed as a nation to the excitement of war we are overly susceptible to the temptation to arrive at sweeping conclusions on the basis of slight evidence. When our troops are advancing, rapidly, as they were a few weeks ago, the war will be over in a matter of hours. When they are pinned down by determined opposition, the war will not be over for months or years. Meanwhile, on the plane of reality, where wars are fought, nothing has changed. Gen. Eisenhower has stated his opinion that the war in Europe can be brought to a conclusion in 1944 if everybody will do his best. Until he revises that opinion, there is no reason to believe anything has happened to alter the prospect of Germany being knocked out of the war within the next three months.

Among the Cows and Chickens

Two high officials of the government, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and Admiral Land, chairman of the maritime commission, have been identified in the last few days with proposals for degrading Germany and Japan to the status of pastoral nations to prevent future aggression. Admiral Land's recommendation, to be carried out against Japan, was made publicly in testimony before the post-war economic subcommittee of the house. Secretary Morgenthau's interest in the same idea is reported to have been expressed in a plan for Germany as a member of a cabinet committee on post-war policy for handling that country. It is said to be his belief that Germany should be converted into an agricultural country of small farms.

There is a fallacy in these suggestions which is too evident to be missed. Another official of the administration, WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson, has just returned from a trip to China, a nation of small farms, which the United States hopes may become an industrial power. Admiral Land, himself, speaks of a post-war United States merchant marine plying the world's waterways—but does not explain what our ships would carry in trade with Germany and Japan, or if there could be any trade with those pastoral nations in the post-war years. The secret of peace is not a pastoral economy, as Messrs. Morgenthau and Land should know from the fact that David, who was a pastoral economist, saved the day against the Philistine giant Goliath with a slingshot, even though Goliath was equipped with armor and a spear.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, September 30

A DRASTIC and sudden avalanche of events may prove so disruptive and uprooting as to change the course of the entire life and its fortunes. Nevertheless, this devastating visitation may be of far reaching and beneficent intent in placing the affairs on an exceedingly safe, sound and enduring base and the disruption may be the simple tearing down of old effete and useless possessions, conditions or ties, to make way for a more desirable, favorable and secure way of life. With such menacing adventure sanely and decisively handled, and not with panic, confusion and terror, lasting benefits should be certain. But act firmly, sensibly, without anger, conserving all available resources. The climax may be constructive and profitable as well as happy.

Those whose birthday it is may not be surprised should a sudden turn of affairs, descending without hint or warning, engineer the life and its fortunes into wholly unexpected and unpredictable environments, circumstances and adventures. The sudden undermining should be of benign purpose, as it will probably demolish and disintegrate all the useless, futile and outgrown connections and interest in favor of a more balanced, promising and practical found on, with safety, endurance and worthwhile conditions eventuating. In the meantime conserve all manner of resources, of funds and energies, refrain from impetuosity, emotional strife and confusion.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

The Study of Drugs

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
WHEN THE doctor gives you some medicine he rather expects to have you ask him some questions. He expects it because it is perfectly natural and he has been up against it before. Not only are the questions perfectly natural, but you entirely deserve an answer to them. You want to know what this medicine is supposed to do? How soon it begins to act? How long will the effect last? When should another dose be given? Will it produce any queer effects?

Dr. Clendinging will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

These questions can be answered for any drug used by the medical profession, but what I want my readers to stop and think about a minute is how were they answered?

The answer shows what progress medical science has made in this particular field. We have just had a valuable new drug introduced into practice—demerol—and reviewing the preparations and precautions that were observed in making it available point up the enormous advance that has been made in this field of the study of drugs over the way drugs used to be used.

Original Substances

In old days the substances that were used for medical purposes were mostly plants, minerals, rocks and parts of animals (powdered next eyes, etc.). Their employment was based on a kind of vague reputation. Uncle Henry has the colic and if we could only get him some black sassafras leaves he would recover, because that is what cured old Lady Gubbenfelder two years ago.

When the leaves of foxglove (digitalis) were introduced into medicine for the cure of dropsy they were found in the prescriptions of an old herb woman who had 20 other kinds of roots and leaves in her concoction. Dr. William Withering, of Birmingham, initiated scientific pharmacology by his study of whether the leaves, the flowers or the root of foxglove was most active. He decided on the leaves. Then, trying it out on patients, he showed how much by weight of the leaves were necessary to obtain his effects. And by what changes in the pulse, etc., the patients were relieved.

Methods Used

Such experimental methods are always used in our day before giving new drugs to the public. Take the new drug, demerol. It is used for pain. We never have enough good drugs to counteract pain. It has been known for a long time that in some kinds of pain a combination of atropine and morphine works better than morphine alone. Atropine quiets the contraction of the smooth muscles of the intestines and the bronchi, and the kidneys, so it can be seen that when pain is due to colic or these muscles atropine would reinforce morphine which quiets pain by deadening the receiving centers in the brain and central nervous system.

So instead of going out in the fields and endlessly trying to find some plant which would combine these virtues, some organic chemists just juggled atoms around until they had synthesized a substance which resembled the structure of both atropine and morphine. The chemists determined also its solubility in water and in human saliva and stomach juices. They found it can be given either by mouth or by hypodermic.

Then the pharmacologists determined its poisonous dosage, and proper dosage by experiments on animals. They found it begins to act in about twenty minutes.

Then the physicians tried it out. I have a report showing how it affected 123 patients suffering from

We are departing from the ancient policy of unilaterally guarding the rights and property of our citizens to accept a newer policy, recognizing that decent society holds it to be an obligation to every nation to collaborate in the preservation of world order.

—Sen. Warren R. Austin (R) of Vermont.

GETTING the additional workers for the urgent programs has been tough. We can get them through the controlled hiring plan if we can counteract the tendency on the part of the people to think in terms of next year's automobile instead of this year's war.

COFFEE TREATS
5 Ways Better!

1. POPULAR SELECTION
Selecting pick of plantation coffees is an exacting art with our buyers in far-off South America. And their selections make A&P Coffee America's most popular coffee.

2. RHYTHM IN ROASTING
Hour after hour, the measured precision of "flavor-saver" roasting brings A&P Coffee to flavor peak. This means mellow, rich goodness in every pound.

3. THE KEY OF FRESHNESS
The key to real coffee satisfaction is freshness. So A&P Coffee is always sold in the roaster-fresh bean—the flavor sealed in till the moment you buy. No wonder this coffee sings with flavor.

4. PERFECT HARMONY
You'll get a chorus of approval when serving coffee that's correctly ground for your coffee-maker. Whether you use a percolator, drip pot or any other type, A&P Coffee is ground before your eyes—just right for your needs.

5. TOP NOTE IN ENJOYMENT
Richer flavor in each cup is your promise of a new "high" in coffee pleasure. See why coffee that's 5 ways better is "tops". Buy A&P Coffee... there's a blend to suit your taste!

FOR PERFECT REGULAR POT COFFEE
Have your fresh bean coffee ground A&P REGULAR POT grind—that's exactly right for a regular pot. Measure into pot, 2 level tablespoons of coffee for each cup. Pour in 1 cup of briskly boiling water, for each cup of coffee required. Stir, cover, and let simmer for 5 to 8 minutes. Settle with dash of cold water, serve immediately.

MUSTERING OUT PAY WON'T GO TO ALL SERVICEMEN

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—Who gets the money when a serviceman is mustered out? How much? Who doesn't get it? Who else can get it?

There are questions and answers to this gift from Uncle Sam to the soldier. Who gets it? Generally it goes to anyone honorably discharged from active service on or after Dec. 7, 1941, including the male and female personnel of Army, Navy, Marines and Coast Guard.

What is amount of mustering out pay? There are three different kinds of mustering out pay.

One hundred dollars—to anyone who has had 60 days or more of active service and has served outside the continental United States. It is given in three equal payments: $100 at time of discharge, one month later, and $100 one year after that.

One hundred dollars—for a person who has had less than 60 days of active service. The full payment is made at time of discharge.

Do all persons who have been honorably discharged from the military service since Dec. 7, 1941, receive mustering out pay? Exceptions Listed

No. Here are some of the main exceptions: 1. Anyone above the rank of captain in the Army or Marines or above the rank of lieutenant, senior grade, in the Navy gets no mustering out pay.

No mustering out pay goes to anyone who is discharged from active service on his own request to accept employment if he has not served outside the continental United States or in Alaska.

Anyone who has served overseas will get mustering out pay even though he is discharged at his request.

Women—except those honorably discharged for disability—who are in the WAAC but did not return to serve in the WAC are not entitled to mustering out pay.

Between Dec. 7, 1941, and Feb. 4, 1944, when mustering out pay became law, 1,300,000 persons were discharged from the military services. Are they entitled to mustering out pay?

Yes, if they met the conditions which entitle any veteran of this war to the payment.

Suppose a veteran was discharged after Dec. 7 and, after leaving the service, died before receiving any portion or the full amount of mustering out pay. Would that veteran's survivors be able to claim mustering out pay?

Yes, if the veteran was entitled to it under conditions above.

No rivers pass to the sea from Great Salt lake, Utah.

Civilian Gets Award. Saves the Army Money

AUSTIN, Tex.—Because the Army was having trouble and spending a lot of time resurfacing meat blocks, civilian employe Frank Sefcik is $75 to the good.

Sefcik is foreman of the post engineers' cabinet shop at nearby Camp Swift. With a device made of several pieces of angle iron and a portable saw he reduced by more than half the resurfacing time. The Army had been using a floor sander and a jointer for the job taking about five hours.

Col. O. P. Houston, Camp Swift commander, said the award was part of the Victory Suggestion plan of the War department to reward civilian employes for time and money-saving suggestions.

WILLIAMSON, RAIL OFFICIAL, IS DEAD

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Frederick E. Williamson, 68, who recently resigned from the presidency of the New York Central railroad because of illness, died here today.

Born in Newark, O., he first worked for the New York Central Sept. 26, 1898, as a clerk on the Newark division at Albany, N. Y. He had been president from 1932 until he resigned Aug. 14.

The tall and scholarly Williamson had been ailing for some time and left the railroad on the advice of his physicians.

STORY OF CHILD BRIDE'S 'CELESTIAL MARRIAGE' IS TOLD

(By Associated Press)
SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 29.—Stories of a child bride's "celestial marriage" and of a broken home, both blamed by witnesses on activities of "Fundamentalists," were related to a district court jury which continued to hear evidence today in the trial of 32 men and women accused of conspiring to preach and practice polygamy.

A strikingly pretty 17-year-old girl said she went three years ago to a nearby canyon with Ross Wesley Lebaron and Charles W. Zitting, heard the latter pronounce "some kind of ceremony," then spent several hours with her "husband" while his first wife stood watch.

The girl was Mrs. Alice Caldwell, who said Zitting told her, in discussing the "marriage," that "all I'd have to do was raise children."

After the canyon ceremony she said she went with Lebaron to a creek at the rear of his home.

"We stayed there," she said, "from about 6 o'clock in the evening until 1:30 the next morning. Then Thelma (Lebaron's wife) came looking for us. She said mamma and daddy were there looking for me."

Mrs. Caldwell said she went home with her parents and two weeks later while roller skating with a girl friend was approached by Mrs. Lebaron.

The diminutive, dark-haired witness said she was pulled to the Lebaron home and remained there until juvenile authorities removed her several hours later.

Earlier in the trial, which required a week to empanel an eight-man jury and now is in its fourth day of testimony, Mrs. Cathryn Cosgrove of San Diego, Calif., said she lived for 22 months as the "celestial" wife of a cultist.

She said the group used books and literature of the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) church but were "taught not to follow the manifesto" of 1890 which called upon Mormons to abandon the practice of polygamy.

OHIO REDUCES ITS BRIDGE BOND DEBT

COLUMBUS, Sept. 29.—The State Bridge commission will retire $365,000 more bonds on the four state-operated toll bridges Oct. 1, Ray Palmer, secretary-treasurer and general manager of the commission, announced today.

The figure represents, Palmer said, annual maturities of $125,000 in bonds on the Sandusky bay bridge; $125,000 on the East Liverpool-Chester bridge; $90,000 on the Steubenville-Weirton bridge, and $25 term bonds which are not due until 1956 on the Pomeroy-Mason bridge.

With the Oct. 1 retirements the Sandusky bridge will be 72 per cent paid for; the Steubenville-Weirton bridge, 58 per cent; the East Liverpool-Chester bridge, 32 per cent and the Pomeroy-Mason bridge, 57 per cent.

Joseph Buerckel, Aide To Hitler, Dead at 49

(By Associated Press)
Joseph Buerckel, minister in Hitler's government and one of the highest ranking Nazis, died today of inflammation of the lungs, the German radio announced.

Buerckel was 49. Berlin said he died at Neustadt.

The broadcast identified him as "First Gauleiter of Australia" and "one of the oldest and most loyal of Hitler's supporters." In his various administrations, he particularly oppressed the Jews.

F. D. R. DENOUNCES ARGENTINA ACTIONS

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—President Roosevelt today denounced the Argentine government for what he termed the growth of Nazi-Fascist influences developing in that country at the very time when Nazi forces are facing defeat in Germany.

Mr. Roosevelt said Argentina has repudiated a solid inter-American system for defense against Nazi aggression and stated in the words of Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain that every nation will be judged by the parts they play in the war, neutrals and belligerents alike.

He said his statement today is important now because of "deception" on the part of Nazi radio broadcasts beamed to Argentina which say Allied councils are divided in their attitude toward Argentina.

Mr. Roosevelt described the broadcasts as fabrications.

Praises Invasion Job
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Back from a hospital inspection tour of England and France, Rep. Frances P. Bolton of Cleveland said "marvelous work was done" during the European invasion. She said the Allied hospital system was "sovereignly tested when Gen. Patton was moving forward so fast."

Mrs. Bolton said she probably was the first civilian woman to enter Paris after its liberation.

PRESIDENT

"This work must be accelerated, and under the guidance of the Department of State you should furnish assistance in work and when requested to do so in personnel by making available specialists to work with the military authorities, the foreign service, and such other American agencies and officials as participate with the United Nations in seeing to it that Germany does not become a menace again to succeeding generations."

Other than on this point, Mr. Roosevelt's order to Crowley covered what FEA should do in adjusting its long-standing operations to the defeat of Germany.

"Lend-lease should continue to be furnished in whatever amounts are necessary for the most effective prosecution of the war," he said, making clear that this meant the flow of lend-lease aid should be continued as needed to defeat Japan as well as Germany.

The policy statement included a direction for international trade after Germany collapses "on as full and free a basis as possible . . . not only as a sound economic foundation for the future peace, but in order that we may have fuller production and employment at home."

Steel Production Drop To 87 Percent Forecast

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 29.—Youngstown district steel production will dip another point next week to 87 per cent of capacity, the lowest rate this year.

Steel men say the reduction reflects national conditions as a result of war contract cutbacks and the reluctance of the War Production board to permit use of more steel for civilian needs.

Schedules indicate 67 of the district's 83 open hearths and all three Bessemer will make steel. All 26 blast furnaces will melt iron.

Airman Is Missing

EAST LIVERPOOL, Sept. 29.—The War department advised Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wilson that their son, Staff Sgt. Raymond M.

Wilson, 19, was reported missing Sept. 12 after an air mission over Germany.

Corp. George W. Sauger, 28, a member of a mechanized cavalry unit, was wounded Sept. 12 in France, his wife, Mrs. Bernice Sauger, was informed.

Staff Sgt. Tony Pugliano, 20, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pugliano, of Wellsville, was wounded Sept. 10 in France.

Mrs. Edwards Dead

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Rachel Sims Edwards, former superintendent of the Akron City hospital and widow of P. Howard Edwards, one-time publisher of the Youngstown Telegram, died Wednesday in Pasadena, Calif.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Did you hear that Tom is going to be inducted into the Army next week, Judge?"

"Yes, Frank told me this morning down at the barber shop. Our town's got a lot of men in the service now, Jim. In fact, all towns have. I was just reading in the paper where there are more than 10,000,000 men away from their homes in the armed forces. And, from all reports, they're doing a grand job bringing victory closer every day."

"We folks at home have a mighty big obligation to those 10,000,000 fighting men. We've got to produce the food to keep them well fed. We've got to keep them supplied with the ammunition and equipment they need to finish their job. We've got to help the Government pay for all these supplies our men need by buying more and more War Bonds. We'll have another big chance to do that by helping to put the next War Loan drive over the top, Jim."

"And, in addition, we must be sure that, while they're away and can't express their opinions, we don't go voting on and deciding any things that will displease them when they come back."

Nude Gambol In Field Brings Sobering Fine

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—State Highway Patrolman Millard Cowan and several hundred war plant workers stopped in amazement near a wheat field on Highway 41.

In the field some distance from the road was a nude man jumping and running in circles.

As the patrolman approached, the man attempted to hide in a wheat shock. Later he told Magistrate Eugene Chaney he was only trying to sober up. The magistrate helped him along by fining him $10 and costs.

USE OUR LAYAWAY PLAN

529 East State Street, Salem, Ohio

Admiral Ernest J. King—"The dollars of every patriotic American must continue to build invasion ships to transport our men and materials in increasing numbers to the many active fronts. In 1944, more than ever before, the money we invest in War Bonds is of supreme importance."

General George C. Marshall—"The American people must give not only their full personal effort but the full use of their dollars invested in War Bonds to back these attacks. There is no alternative. Total victory is in sight, but it can only be won by concentrating every resource of America to the task."

The first 3 years have been the easiest!

It's easy to give everything you've got when you're scared to death and fighting for your life. It's hardest to bear down when things look "in the bag."

As the war looks today, for instance.

Over-confidence may not lose us this war. But if it makes us ease up, it can prolong it.

Even if only one extra day is added to the war—just one—thousands of American boys may die for it. Perhaps, God forbid, a friend of yours, or son, or brother, or sweetheart, or husband.

So don't slow down now. Don't coast. Buy Bonds with that extra cash—all the Bonds you can.

After all, buying Bonds is not only a patriotic but a very wise thing to do. The dollars you put in Bonds now will come back to you—bringing more dollars with them. Dollars that can mean happiness, security, comfort—just when you'll want those things most.

Buy War Bonds for your Country. Buy them for yourself. They're the world's safest investment.

FRANKLIN, Ind.—Ensign Robert Demaree, U.S.N., wrote home to his mother, Mrs. Demaree, in Chicago, that he needed two catnip mice, "Thomas," a mascot of his ship.

Seemed the 1st crew adopted a mouse in a port during the invasion of France, Thomas quickly earned the rating DC 1/C (dog first class) by routing a cat that once tried to take over the ship.

Demaree wrote, "I have a tabby in every port, been AWOL at least twice and this sea-coit' feline like his ship—Catnip."

Emphasizes Value Of Linguistics In Our Postwar World

(By United Press)
MEXICO CITY—Dr. Albert R. Markwardt, resident director of the English Language Institute, teaching of foreign languages in the United States that will be in line with present linguistic demands, have become accelerated because of the war.

Markwardt, on leave from the University of Michigan, where he is professor of English, directed his comments to the 100 North American teachers of Spanish from universities and high schools in the United States enrolled in the first Spanish Language institute of the U. S. Department of Education and the University of Mexico.

There is today a stronger initial emphasis upon the spoken or productive ability in languages. The work of linguistic scientists in teaching many of the lesser known languages in connection with the war effort has developed devices which will undoubtedly alter post-war language study.

Although foreign language teaching in the United States has developed pedagogical methods to a far greater degree than the teaching of English in foreign countries, both English and the foreign languages, until about 1942, had been greatly vitiated through emphasis upon mere reading translations and inappropriate grammatical concepts, Markwardt said.

Pressure from other studies and teaching ineffectiveness have, by and large, limited to two years the time that the average student spends in a language course.

However, the rapid development of communications and the position of the United States as a leader in international affairs will create a need for practical knowledge of foreign languages, which must be provided, Markwardt added.

Mahoning Marine Knocks Out Three Jap Tanks In Duel

PELELIU, Palau Island (Delayed)—It's D-day plus two. For 48 hours our planes have been bombing and strafing enemy positions. Mortars and artillery have been taking hill defenses. Naval guns have been sending a stream of explosives into the fortified ridges of this battered Japanese stronghold.

Enemy mortars and artillery have inflicted heavy casualties on this veteran combat unit. Veterans of Guadalcanal and Cape Gloucester say this is the toughest landing in which they have participated.

We reached the beach without mishap. But some of the others weren't so fortunate. Of six Ducks (amphibian trucks), which started out from our LST, only two reached the beach.

Then the Japanese tanks attacked. Across the airfield they came. Two got through our front lines, but bazooka men took care of them in a hurry. One marine, Pfc. Robert C. Bunker, of Diamond, Mahoning county, Ohio, knocked out at least three, and helped knock out a fourth with his bazooka.

NEW RED STAMPS VALID ON SUNDAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Three more red ration stamps, totaling 30 points for meats and fats, and five more blue stamps amounting to 50 points for processed foods will become valid Sunday.

The Office of Price Administration said:

Blue stamps to be validated are M-5, N-5, P-5, Q-5 and R-5. Red stamps to be validated are H-5, J-5 and K-5.

All stamps will be good indefinitely. OPA said it is not expected that any more red stamps will be validated until Oct. 29 and blue stamps until Nov. 1.

Louisville Dress Firm Defendant In OPA Suit

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29.—Anthony R. Florette, district OPA enforcement attorney, filed suit in district court here asking treble damages of $7,392 from G. Hess, Inc., of Louisville, O., a dress manufacturing firm, for allegedly charging over-ceiling prices.

Florette said G. H. Hess, president of the concern, sold 821 dozen dresses for $36 a dozen in January and June when the ceiling price was $33 a dozen. He added that Hess was charged with listing dresses at $36 a dozen in March, 1942, when similar garments were selling for $33 a dozen.

Plaque Dedication Set

EAST LIVERPOOL, Sept. 29.—Congressman Earl R. Lewis of St. Clairsville, representing the 18th district, will speak at dedication Wednesday of this city's honor roll listing the names of 3,800 sons and daughters in the armed forces.

Port wine is named after the town of Oporto, Portugal.

Canine Politics

Alliance Sailor's Death Is Confirmed By Navy

ALLIANCE, Sept. 29.—Listed as missing for a year since the sinking of the U. S. S. Rowan in the Tyrrhenian sea, Seaman First Class John Sandi, 22, has been officially declared dead, the Navy department has informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irmie Sandi.

He entered the service Feb. 2, 1942. Two sisters and a brother also survive.

Pvt. Peter Bianchini, 29, who has the Purple Heart for wounds received July 8 while with the Fifth army, has been wounded a second time, according to word to his mother, Mrs. Jennie Bianchini, from the War department.

A Tokyo communique asserted Japanese columns captured Tanchuk, one of the last three U. S. airfields in southeast China, the remaining two—at Kweilin, 90 miles to the north and Linchow, about 200 to the south—were threatened. Their fall would force Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's 14th airforce 480 miles west to Kunming.

Tokyo said Paoching, a thorn in the Japanese southward push toward Kweilin, had fallen.

Baring the Tax Facts

NEWTON, Mass.—Citizens here found something new in the envelope with their real estate tax bill this year. City fathers enclosed a leaflet showing how tax money is apportioned to pay various city costs. This breakdown, showing how the money is spent, also is expected to help municipal department heads answer complaints of residents.

Where collective bargaining failed to produce an agreement on wages, of course, the WLB would continue to act as arbiter.

Chairman Davis and Vice Chairman George W. Taylor have been authorized by the board to discuss this plan with the OPA and the manpower commission.

To this set of principles, the board may add a recommendation for authorization to determine wage disputes without regard to the Little Steel formula in cases where workers' total earnings have been sharply cut by a reduction in working time. Wage rate increases in those cases, it would be argued, would not add to the inflationary pool but would maintain purchasing power in civilian goods market. This, of course, would not operate until after V-E (Victory in Europe) day.

CIO Apprehensive

This plan for the reconversion period does not in itself resolve the currently boiling issue over the Little Steel formula, but the CIO is apprehensive lest it serve as an inviting suggestion to the White House to delay the big decision on wages until V-E day when collective bargaining would operate again in a broader field.

When the reconversion formula came under discussion in the WLB a CIO member objected that labor's demands for general increases in the wartime wage ceilings should be disposed of before the postwar wage controls are mapped.

Contrariwise, Robert J. Watt, an AFL member, moved to recommend the lifting of all controls within 30 days after V-E day.

Philip Murray, CIO president, expressed that organization's misgivings about this plan when he told the WLB in open hearing this week on the steel wage case that "it would be outrageous for this board to suggest that the outcome of this case must be further delayed or the effective date of the directive postponed pending further developments on the military fronts."

Murray pressed the board for a recommendation to the President by Oct. 15.

Suspicious Sausages

SYDNEY, Australia—A flourishing trade in horseflesh for pets sprang up here after stringent meat rationing, but rumors that it was going into sausages and pies resulted in bills being passed enforcing strict control of the meat.

groups have a few thousand. Progress has been made in arming them, but they probably can't approach the efficiency of the French Forces of Liberation. Nevertheless, with some Albanian and Allied help they shouldn't have too much trouble clearing up the isolated Germans of whom there may be 25,000 who are accustomed to fit into a regular army supply system and probably helpless without it.

Another little-known partisan outfit from which we may hear more soon is the Russian-sponsored SNOF (Peoples National Liberation Front) in Bulgaria. They become particularly active in fighting from Yugoslavia the Bulgarian army forces bent there spring to relieve German units duty against Russia.

The main job against Germany, of course, is to be done by the Allies in the west and Russian forces from Poland. But a southern front is rapidly being developed which may prove in the long run, more important than the Italian campaign in the actual battle for Germany.

NO HOME

Abbott said Patterson later was found asleep in the rear seat of his automobile near the Ashland machine shop where he was employed. Patterson at first denied knowledge of the drowning, the sheriff said, but later related this story.

He left Ashland about 11 a. m. Wednesday with the children and drove to Wooster where he had a few drinks. Later he started for Coshocton, arriving near Mohican creek about midnight.

He told the children to lie down and sleep. Later he awoke the baby and Raymond, walked onto the bridge and dropped them into the water.

The twins, Gene and Glenn, were left beside a road where passersby found them, the sheriff said. They had huddled under a wet bungee in the rain, and were brought to Coshocton City hospital.

Teachers Faithful On Jobs, Survey Discloses

LOS ANGELES — Women have tended to stay with their positions rather than taking war jobs, but have supplemented their work with volunteer war effort, according to a survey of 4,387 members of Pi Lambda Theta, women's educational honorary, under supervision of Dr. May V. Seagoe of the University of California.

Only 5.5 per cent reported they were in full-time war jobs and of those who stayed in their original occupation only 1.9 thought they'd made a mistake.

REAL ESTATE
REAL ESTATE
NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY THAT FARM!
Seventy-five acres located about three miles from Salem on paved road. There is frontage on both sides of the road. Is improved with an extra good 7-room house under slate roof, electricity. The barn burned down. It would be necessary for general farming to build a barn, but there is sufficient timber on this farm to build a barn. In fact, I feel that there is enough timber to build the frame work, balance could be sold for enough to buy the siding and the roof for the barn. If you were in the chicken business, you could build a large chicken house. However, there is a large shed and other necessary outbuildings with the exception of the barn. Pasture watered. Fruit for home use.
Send for my free catalog of farm bargains if you are interested in buying a farm.

THE REST OF MY LIFE WITH YOU

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO

Matthew went out to his car and up to a patient, a boy who was very ill. Matthew arranged for an ambulance and went with the boy to the hospital. He stayed there most of the night. Toward morning there was a change, and for the better. . . . Matthew thought, "Suppose we'd had a son, Judith and I, and he'd grown up. . . ."

Later he went home, unshaved, dead for sleep, to call his office and check his appointments, to throw himself down on the bed for half an hour, and sleep until Olga called him.

Mary and Lynn were still in Bermuda. He heard from his mother every week. She was happy, she wrote.

Matthew dined with the Morleys and the Taylors. They were so careful not to speak of Judith. And on the night he dined with the Taylors he went home early and sat down before the fire, lighted his pipe and tried to think.

He thought: Judith left me because—and it boils down to this—she believes me to be selfish. Very well. What's to prevent my going after her, for the same reason? Because I am selfish, because I want her, because I need her.

Why, exactly, did he need her? Because nothing was really good without her. . . . neither the parties she hosted nor the theater nor the weather, nor the country nor the city. Nothing. Why last night, Olga's dinner hadn't been to his liking, Olga was slack when Judith wasn't there. The servants don't like me, Matthew told himself; they tolerate me because of her.

He needed her in his life, he loved her because of all the gifts she brought him.

Matthew had said, "You needn't come back." He had his pride. Well, confound it, he had his selfishness too and that was more than his pride!

He went to the telephone and called Sam Morley to announce: "I'm flying to the Coast. I want to talk to you about the office."

Sam said, without inflection, "No reason why you can't get away. Jim Garrison would take over for you. How long will you be gone?"

"Long enough to bring Judith back."

"Good!" said Sam. "We've all missed her."

Eva Lambert saw him first, coming up the path. She hadn't been able to believe her eyes. There he was, getting out of the taxi, walking toward her. The bungalow was bright with sunshine and the birds sang and Eva had been in the garden with Judith.

When she came west, Judith had said merely, "I've come home to you, mother, because I have to think things out."

Now Matthew said, "Well, here I am. . . . where's Judy?"

Eva had a hundred things to ask him: How is your mother? What have you been doing to yourself? But she saw his eyes. Everything could wait. She said, "I'm glad to see you, dear. She's in the garden. . . . up that little path."

But he was already on the path, turning the corner and lost to view. Judith was cutting flowers. She wore a very full-skirted dress splashed with bright, impossible flowers. Her hair was bright in the sunshine. Her face, he saw, was grave and much thinner than he remembered it.

Matthew cried, "Judy!" and she turned, the flowers fell from her hands. She went perfectly white; he caught her just as she toppled.

He carried her down the path and into the house and Eva followed distractedly.

"Put her down there," said Eva. "I'll get water. I'll—"

The living room was long, and bright with sunlight. Matthew laid his wife on the big couch and knelt beside her. Her hands were cold in his own. But presently her eyes opened.

Eva came in and he waved her away. "She's all right," he said.

Judith said, "I—it was just the shock." She tried to sit up and he sat beside her and took her in his arms. He said, "I've come for you."

The color was back in her cheeks. She asked, "Why?"

"Because," he told her deliberately, "I'm selfish. You've always said that and it's true. Probably I won't change. But because I'm selfish I have to have you, no matter how unhappy I make you. I'll try not to, Judy. I'll try to see things as you do. I don't know whether I'll succeed or not. But I will try. I can't," he said, "get along without you."

She said after a moment, "If you need me, I'll come. That's all I ever wanted."

He asked, with heart-breaking humility, "May I kiss you—now?"

A little later Judith drew away from him and leaned back against the couch. She said, "I've prayed, every day, every night. . . ."

"Stubborn," Matthew said, "you wouldn't let me know—"

"No, you said, 'Don't come back.' I couldn't, could I? You had to come get me. And you did," she said.

"You did."

"Pure selfishness," he reminded her.

"Not exactly. Just the selfishness that's only half a self when the other half is missing."

He said gravely, "I'll never be all you want me to be, Judy. You'll be hurt and disappointed often."

She declared, "That's a long step ahead, isn't it, that you can think that and say it?"

He said, "I didn't even ask you to come back," and while she looked at him smiling, the blue eyes luminous, he asked her, "Will you, Judy? Will you come back?"

She leaned her head against his shoulder and smiled. "Have we solved our problem? I wonder. I'll go home with you, and we will work it out together. It won't always be easy."

She was silent a moment. Then she added, "I took advantage of you, Matthew, going to pieces like that, a while ago. . . . but I've been so wretched and I had almost stopped hoping."

He said, "You've made yourself ill."

He took her thin little face in his hands and looked into her eyes. . . .

"I had a cold, and it hung on," explained Judith. "And I haven't been eating or sleeping much. I'll be all right now, Matthew. Please don't worry." She smiled radiantly.

"You're the doctor," she reminded him.

"It was I who made you ill," he admitted.

"I believe in you," she said; "I've always loved you but now I believe in you."

He murmured, after a moment, "You wanted a child, terribly."
